The Future Of Advertising

The 3 Easiest Ways To Start Profiting From Affiliate Marketing

What Is Affiliate Marketing?

Affiliate marketing is a revenue sharing between a merchant and an affiliate who gets paid for referring or promoting the merchants' products and services. It is one of the fastest growing industries nowadays because it is proven to be cost-efficient and quantifiable means of attaining great profit both for the merchant and the affiliate and other players in the affiliate program, such as the affiliate network or affiliate solution provider.

Affiliate marketing, simply said, is a relationship or agreement made between two websites, with one site being the merchant's website and the other being the affiliate's site. In the relationship, the affiliate agrees to let the merchant advertise his products on the affiliate's site and/or through their preferred marketing. The merchant, on the other hand, would agree to pay the affiliate in whatever method they have agreed into. This may generally mean easy income for the affiliate, as he would do nothing but place the retailer's ad on his site. This would also be very beneficial for the merchant, as getting affiliates to advertise their products would be a lot more affordable than hiring an advertising firm to promote their products.

There are a variety of methods on how the merchant would compensate the affiliate for his services, and for the webmaster, these methods simply translates to the method by which he would earn easy cash. Among the more common methods of compensation are the pay-per-click method, the pay-per-lead method, and the pay-per-sale method. The pay-per-click method is the method most preferred by affiliates, for their site's visitor would only have to visit the advertiser's site for them to gain money. The key there is the affiliate must have their own site in which to place the ad. The other two methods, on the other hand, are better preferred by merchants, as they would only have to compensate you if your visitor becomes one of their registrants or if the visitor actually buys their products.

Whether to have your own website/product or not?

Whether or not you need to have your own product to become a successful affiliate marketer is a question that has been asked and answered every few minutes since affiliate marketing came on the scene. The reason it is asked so often is because everybody has a different answer. There are those who say you absolutely MUST have your own product to get started and to succeed in affiliate marketing and then there are those who say you don't need a product when you start or ever to be successful. So, which is it? Yes? No?

The fact of the matter is that everybody is right. Having your own product is great but it isn't absolutely necessary. Those who have their own product they can build a website around that product and add affiliate links to it. Those who don't have their own products you can still be a profitable affiliate marketer. Either create a website to market it or simply market your affiliate links. Website owners love affiliate marketers and marketable products are not the least bit hard to find.

The thing that both those who do and those who don't have their own product/websites have in common is that they both must be passionate about the products they sell. You will never be successful in selling something that you aren't interested in yourself. It takes drive and ambition to succeed at any endeavor and affiliate marketing isn't any different. Choose products you are passionate about in order to keep your drive and ambition alive and producing for the long haul.

Whether you are marketing your own product or a product produced by others your success is directly related to how effective your marketing techniques are, how focused you are, how well you manage your time, and how much you believe in the product.

Finding Products To Market

With the aid of the Internet, you have almost anything right at your fingertips. With just a few clicks you get access to thousands and even millions of pieces of information and data on virtually any field of interest. As years pass by, the Internet continues to effect radical changes in many facets of human endeavors, including commerce. Experts say that the information space, commonly known as the "world wide web," grows by over a million pages everyday as more and more people utilize the Internet for information, education, entertainment, business and other personal reasons. It doesn't take a business-oriented individual to realize that this phenomenon can bring about sky-high financial gains. The Internet's fast-growing popularity in the recent years is surely an opportunity for business that any entrepreneur would not want to miss.

You might be thinking only businessmen can make money out of the Internet. Think again. You too can earn big bucks through the Internet even if you don't have products to sell and a high-profile and established company. How? That is through affiliate marketing.

Getting large profits through affiliate marketing programs, however, does not depend so much on the compensation method as it does on the traffic generated by the affiliate. A website that can attract more visitors would generally have the greater chance of profiting in affiliate marketing programs that pay on a per click or per lead basis, such as Google AdSense.

What about Google AdSense?

Google AdSense is actually an affiliate marketing program of sorts. In Google AdSense, Google acts as the intermediary between the affiliates and the merchants. The merchant, or the advertiser, would simply sign up with Google and provide the latter with text ads pertaining to their products. These ads, which is actually a link to the advertiser's website, would then appear on Google searches as well as on the websites owned by the affiliates, or by those webmasters who have signed up with the Google AdSense program.

While one can find a lot of similarities between Google AdSense and other affiliate marketing programs, you can also see a lot of differences. In Google AdSense, all the webmaster has to do is place a code on his website and Google takes care of the rest. The ads that Google would place on your site would generally be relevant to the content of your site. This would be advantageous both for you and for the advertiser, as the visitors of your site would more or less be actually interested with the products being advertised.

The Google AdSense program compensates the affiliate on a pay-per-click basis. The advertisers would pay Google a certain amount each time their ad on your site is clicked and Google would then forward this amount to you through checks, although only after Google deducts their share of the amount. Google AdSense checks are usually delivered monthly. Also, the Google AdSense program provides webmasters with a tracking tool that allows you to monitor the earnings you actually get from a certain ad.

So, where does all of this lead us?

Where else but to profits, profits and even more profits! Affiliate marketing programs and the Google AdSense program simply work, whether you are the merchant or the affiliate. For the merchant's side, a lot of money can be saved if advertising effort is concentrated on affiliate marketing rather than on dealing with advertising firms. For the webmaster, you can easily gain a lot of profits just by doing what you do best, and that is by creating websites. And if you combine all your profits from both the Google AdSense program and other affiliate marketing programs, it would surely convert to a large amount of cash.

Remember Google only works if you have your own site. If you want to market affiliate programs without having the extra expenses/concerns of owning and running a site, your own just focus on the other aspects of affiliate marketing.

Summary:

- If you want to be an affiliate marketer and make your fortune from the Internet, follow the three easiest ways to start an effective affiliate marketing program.
- *First is to identify a particular thing you are interested in or passionate about so you won't be bored and forced to develop your affiliate web site later on.
- *Focusing on related products/services will help you bring out your best with less risks and effort. You can add a personal touch to your site and give your visitors who are possible buyers an impression that you are an expert in your field. In this way, you gain their trust and eventually encourage them to buy the products you endorse.
- *Next is to look for good paying merchants and products or services related to your interest and create a website and or business/marketing plan. In choosing the products, you must should consider its conversion rate. This is the rate of visitors to buyers. ClickBank does it for you by assigning a Gravity to each product. Simply search for products in your area of expertise and sort by Gravity to see the most popular.

I've included my top 10 picks below. Visit these merchants to see what kind of products they offer and how they run their affiliate center. You'll gain a lot of insights just by observing what other people are advertising.
